

serving God and my country

When one girl pledges “to serve God and my country,” she makes a promise to her community and herself. When millions of girls make the pledge over the course of 100 years, their actions create a legacy.

On March 12, 2012, Girl Scouts of the USA celebrates its 100th anniversary and its commitment to building girls of courage, confidence and character who make the world a better place.

During Girl Scout Week, March 11 - 17, girls and women from all walks of life will celebrate the world-wide impact of our movement. Generations of women hold a special place in their hearts for the memories and leadership skills they gained by “helping people at all times” and taking action to make their communities better.

Girl Scouting today echoes the same values of its first founding days while inspiring girls with relevant topics to explore. Accentuating these values is our commitment to encouraging girls to explore “My Promise, My Faith,” a special recognition achieved when girls explore how the values of the Girl Scout Law support their own faith.

We thank everyone who captures the spirit of volunteerism by investing their time and resources in girls. Together, we can get each girl to realize her full potential . Together we can ensure each girl knows we support her as she follows her dreams.

Join the celebration.

Reconnect as alumnae.

Volunteer your time, talents.

Today’s girls need you.

Invest in girls.

Commit to supporting their future.

www.girlscoutsgcnwi.org
1-855-ILOVEGS

serving God and my country

When one girl pledges “to serve God and my country,” she makes a promise to her community and herself. When millions of girls make the pledge over the course of 100 years, their actions create a legacy.

On March 12, 2012, Girl Scouts of the USA celebrates its 100th anniversary and its commitment to building girls of courage, confidence and character who make the world a better place.

During Girl Scout Week, March 11 - 17, girls and women from all walks of life will celebrate the world-wide impact of our movement. Generations of women hold a special place in their hearts for the memories and leadership skills they gained by “helping people at all times” and taking action to make their communities better.

Girl Scouting today echoes the same values of its first founding days while inspiring girls with relevant topics to explore. Accentuating these values is our commitment to encouraging girls to explore “My Promise, My Faith,” a special recognition achieved when girls explore how the values of the Girl Scout Law support their own faith.

We thank everyone who captures the spirit of volunteerism by investing their time and resources in girls. Together, we can get each girl to realize her full potential . Together we can ensure each girl knows we support her as she follows her dreams.

Join the celebration.

Reconnect as alumnae.

Volunteer your time, talents.

Today’s girls need you.

Invest in girls.

Commit to supporting their future.

www.girlscoutsgcnwi.org
1-855-ILOVEGS

