2008-09 Annual Report

Jeanne Reynolds, President and Chairman, and Maria Wynne, CEO, accept the ATHENA International Award for Organizational Leadership

On a Journey Together

Our girls are doing amazing things! Our council is doing amazing things! Thanks to all of you, our volunteers, girls, board members, corporate partners, donors and staff, we can look back on our first year of operation with pride. So much has been achieved!

In a short amount of time, we've transitioned from seven separately functioning corporations to one integrated council on its way to realizing its full potential in efficiency and effectiveness.

Together with our volunteers, including our dedicated board of directors, we are building the foundation upon which a modern Girl Scout experience comes alive. We are adapting and changing to meet the diverse needs of our members.

With our dedication and determination to set the bar high, we accomplished something rare at the end of our first year. By growing our girl membership by 1,000 girls, we now serve 95,000 girls and 24,000 volunteers, defying the trend of first-year, merger-related membership losses. With your support, we are bringing Girl Scouting to more girls across two states, six Illinois counties and four Indiana counties, and 245 communities across greater Chicago and northwest Indiana.

ATHENA International recognized our first-year accomplishments with its first-ever, prestigious ATHENA International Award for Organizational Leadership, signaling a milestone for us in the confidence that the larger business community across our council has in the significant work we have accomplished.

As the largest Girl Scout council in the country, we have a unique opportunity to make a tremendous impact on this generation of girls. We are laying the groundwork for years to come with experiences such as Camp CEO, Journey World, and our flagship programs that offer lessons in Healthy Living, Financial Literacy and Entrepreneurship, STEM (science, technology, engineering and math) Global Awareness, Arts and Culture and Outdoor Education.

We are advocating on Capitol Hill and in the state legislature on behalf of girls and the issues that impact them, including relational aggression, portrayal of its impact on self-image and health, and ensuring that girls develop an interest in science, technology, engineering and math and are supported financially to participate in developmental programs.

Together

We are reaching out to every girl, in every neighborhood and community, to support her and her dreams for the future. That includes girls in detention centers, families in difficult economic situations and those whose lives have been torn apart by violence.

This past year, which was a challenging one for our national and global economies, may not have offered the ideal environment for a first-year merger. Our council's fiscal outcomes were in line with, and sometimes better, than results from other merged councils from across the United States and the economic environment as a whole. We made infrastructure investments while exercising temperance in the cost of running our organization. Thankfully, we remain focused on the long term, and our long-term financial picture is solid, as are our reserves.

As we begin this second year, we see an upward trend and see lots of momentum behind us. Our council's financial stability is reinforced by consistently strong support from our donors, corporate partners and foundations who share in our belief that girls who start out as leaders remain leaders. We believe we are poised for real growth in the future.

We are excited about the opportunities ahead to provide girls with innovative programs. We are engaging in pilots and strategic alliances with marquee organizations that will allow us to enrich the portfolio of experiences for all of our girls. Each day we gain new insights into ways to make this organization stronger and ever focused on girls. It is an exciting time to support Girl Scouts! We are moving with speed toward organizational excellence in performance to better serve all of our girls.

Join us in doing amazing things!

Amazing Transformation

The Merger

On July 1, 2008, seven Girl Scout councils merge to become Girl Scouts of Greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana with nearly 94,000 girl members and 24,000 volunteers in two states, including six Illinois counties and four Indiana counties, and 245 communities.

New CEO Appointed

Maria Wynne is appointed CEO on Oct. 27, 2008, and immediately begins to put in place a senior leadership team focused on dramatically scaling up the organization over the next two to five years to achieve new organizational efficiencies and expand programming for girls.

Strong Support Builds High-Capacity Structure

Incredible support from The Chicago Community Trust and the Wallace Foundation signals a groundswell of community support for our work to blend the different cultures of seven separate councils by building an infrastructure that integrates programs, finance and information technology platforms, and eliminates competition for valuable resources.

Defying the Odds

Our council defies the national trend of membership declines in newly merged councils by growing its girl membership by more than 1,000 girls or one percent in its first year.

An Innovative Space

Journey World, a center for leadership and innovation, opens in October 2009. This remarkable 25,000 square-foot, state-of-the-art facility offers 3rd – 12th graders unique, immersive learning experiences that encourage them to learn about science, technology, engineering and math, in addition to environmental sciences, commerce, entrepreneurship, financial literacy and career exploration.

ATHENA Award

On Nov. 4, 2009, the council and Maria Wynne accept the inaugural ATHENA International Award for Organizational Leadership in recognition for the council's transformational work in developing young women and girl leaders.

"Journey World is a great imagination space where young people can have fun play-acting while learning about the world. Next time we visit, we're going to wear oversized clothes so we really feel like kids."

– Dave Loew and Jon Wyville, Leo Burnett

Journey World represents our commitment to investing in and inspiring the leadership competencies of tomorrow's workforce. Everyone needs a place that sparks the imagination, opens their eyes to new possibilities and illuminates the paths they may choose to take into the future.

Journey World

An Innovative Concept in Experiential Learning

Fueled by the vision of transforming the current landscape of learning opportunities available for youth outside of traditional classrooms, Girl Scouts of Greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana quickly embraced the idea of launching a showcase program center that would inspire leadership and encourage innovation.

Journey World officially launched in October 2009 as a creative space that will play a critical role in developing generations of young people who can embrace new ideas and put those ideas into action. Journey World provides fun, dynamic and interactive learning for girls of all ages, and for all youth. Role playing and scientific discovery challenge participants to look at the world around them in new ways.

This remarkable 25,000-square-foot, state-of-the-art facility offers 3rd through 12th graders unique, immersive learning experiences that encourage them to explore careers in science, technology, engineering, math, environmental sciences, commerce, entrepreneurship and finance.

Workshops, school-day programs and overnights give youth unique opportunities to explore two floors: It's Your Future – Dream It (participants take on the roles of business owners and employees to explore and understand how a real city runs) and It's Your Planet – Love It (an environmentally focused floor which encourages participants to explore science, nature and community impact projects).

As a national destination, Journey World is poised to spark the imagination of youth who are leading the way toward the future.

"PricewaterhouseCoopers is proud to deepen its relationship with the Girl Scouts of Greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana during this exciting time for the organization. The opening of Journey World and the opportunities it provides transforms the future of young girls everywhere as they aspire to be our next generation of leaders."

– Aaron Martinez, PriceWaterhouseCoopers

Girl Scout Jennifer Eisner, with her sister Julia, submitted the winning name for Journey World

"The Art Institute of Chicago is thrilled to be a part of the Journey World experience for young people from across Chicago and Northwest Indiana. We applaud the inclusion of the non-profit and arts sectors in the overall layout of the space and in the curriculum, emphasizing the importance of culture, education and philanthropy in a healthy and productive society."

– Carrie Heinson and Sarah Alvarez, The Art Institute of Chicago

Shattering Myths

It should come as no surprise that Girl Scouts of all ages, from all walks of life, and with different personalities and strengths are blazing new trails and exploring leadership in ways that defy traditional stereotypes. They shatter myths with every step they take along the way as they attain Girl Scouting's highest honors; set their sights on careers in fields dedicated to science, technology, engineering and math; and interact with executive women in roles that require skilled decision-making, vision and the ability to lead others with innovation and confidence.

The Girl Scout Gold Award

Ninety high school students from all corners of our council geography qualified for Girl Scouts of the USA's most prestigious national honor for girls, the Girl Scout Gold Award, in 2009 and were honored in the presence of their families during a special ceremony on June 15 at Journey World, the Girl Scout center for leadership and innovation. Highlighting the evening were special remarks by Margaret Stender, CEO of the Chicago Sky, and Chicago Sky player Shyra Ely, who inspired the girls to continue to express themselves and achieve greatness in their lives.

All girls earning the Gold Award use their leadership skills, organizational skills and sense of community and commitment to set the foundation for a lifetime of active citizenship. Girls progress through seven steps, including the completion of a significant service project. The project must fulfill a need within a girl's community (whether local or global), create change and be sustaining.

Leah Koch: A Young Woman of Distinction

Girl Scouts of the USA named local Girl Scout Leah Koch as one of its 10 National Young Women of Distinction for 2009. This honor recognizes Leah for the caliber of her Girl Scout Gold Award project, and the rippling effects of its impact. Leah channeled her love of the theater into her project, writing an original play, recruiting and rehearsing the actors, and then taking the play on a tour around the City of Chicago. Each performance left an impact, especially on the young audience members in hospitals and afterschool programs who heard the affirming and inspiring messages. Leah then transformed the script into a picture book.

Some transformational moments pivot on the outcome of a single event, one particularly impactful meeting between a girl and a mentor who suddenly opens that girl's eyes to inspiring possibilities. In that moment, the girl takes another thoughtful step forward on her leadership journey.

Camp CEO participant Connie Lindsey, Executive Vice President at Northern Trust and National President of Girl Scouts of the USA, shares a moment with Natasha Tharwani.

of Leadership

Camp CEO

Girl Scout Natasha Tharwani first met Connie Lindsey, Executive Vice President at Northern Trust and National President of Girl Scouts of the USA, at Camp CEO in June 2009. Camp CEO provides true inspiration and an unparalleled leadership development experience for girls in high school that transforms how girls view their own leadership potential. The program matches 25 teen Girl Scouts with 25 leading corporate executive women for a week-long immersive learning opportunity. Often these inspirational women learn as much from the self-confident teens as the teens learn from them. Stereotypes and myths fade away throughout the week as the women share the intimate details of their own leadership journeys during "Dreaming Your Future" sessions, including the challenges and choices they faced and the strategies they used to accomplish their goals.

"You don't realize how amazing Camp CEO really is until you open your eyes and experience it for yourself."
 — Joanne Dynak, Girl Scout

Natasha's story:

When first arriving at Camp CEO, I had no idea what to expect. I was a bit nervous meeting all the girls and talking to the CEOs because these women are such important figures in today's society. As the CEOs started arriving, I realized that there was nothing to be intimidated by.

My favorite part of Camp CEO was the "Dreaming Your Future" sessions. Each experience that the CEOs shared varied from being related to either their personal or professional life, but each experience contributed to my knowledge on how to become a good leader. Whether it was learning about the importance of sisterhood in a professional environment, or how a career choice can be flexible and isn't set in stone was all very eye-opening. It was very inspiring to hear what obstacles and challenges the different CEOs faced and how they achieved the position they are at now. It really allows you to think about your future and realize how nothing has to be decided right away. It's all about finding your passion, and if you're able to find it early, that's great, but that's not how it necessarily happens. With this new perspective in mind, it allows you to understand your future and the long, but remarkable journey ahead of you.

Chicago Sky

Joanne Dynak first met Margaret Stender, CEO of the Chicago Sky WNBA basketball team, at Camp CEO. "I made amazing connections with both my fellow Camp CEO girls and the women there that will last a lifetime. The wonderful women that attended this camp didn't really focus on business or their own lives and careers – they show us how to be strong and follow our own dreams." Then Joanne had the opportunity to meet with Margaret once again in August 2009.

Girl Scouts of Greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana partnered with the Chicago Sky to give girls a unique opportunity to "take over" the operations of its August 22 game. Girl Scouts assisted both behind the scenes and in front of the audience as co-captains of the game, statisticians, film crew assistants, Twitter correspondents, photographers, half-time performers, bloggers and announcers. As an added benefit, this incredible partnership raised more than $5,000 to support Girl Scout programs.

Girl Scouts leave a place better than they found it. With that prevailing thought in mind, girls of all ages left their marks in neighborhoods, communities and even on people in places around the world in 2009.

Making An Impact

Gift of Caring Program

A taste of home is a valuable commodity for the men and women serving overseas in the military. During the 2009 Girl Scout Cookie® season, our council rallied the community-at-large to support its Gift of Caring: Troop to Troop campaign. Individuals purchased and donated boxes of cookies that were distributed to several organizations working directly with the women and men serving in the military at home and overseas, as well as several others focused on providing services for the homeless and the hungry. Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley joined Girl Scouts representing all age levels to kick off the campaign with a press conference on April 18 at the Girl Scout Regional Service Center in Chicago.

Embracing the Gift of Caring program added a wonderful community action dimension to our annual Girl Scout Cookie Program. This very important program empowers girls of all ages with the opportunity to practice basic business skills, including money management and goal-setting. Girls set sales goals, create marketing plans and practice their public speaking skills. Women often tell us that selling Girl Scout cookies was their first introduction to the idea of pursuing a sales and marketing career.

Tribute to Achievement

On March 4, 2009, Girl Scouts of Greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana held its annual Tribute to Achievement fundraising dinner at the Hilton Chicago to honor individuals and corporate leaders who excel through their accomplishments and commitment to service. The Luminary Award, the highest honor presented to an individual in their field who serves as a role model for girls and women, was presented to Connie Lindsey, Executive Vice President, The Northern Trust Company; and the Corporate Appreciation Award was presented to Kraft Foods, Inc. for its investment in girl leadership programming with Irene B. Rosenfeld, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, accepting. Dinner Co-Chairs were Ellen M. Costello, President and Chief Executive Officer, Harris Financial Corp.; Ruth Ann M. Gillis, Executive Vice President, Exelon Corporation, and President, Exelon Business Services Company; and Melody Spann Cooper, Chairman, Midway Broadcasting Corporation/WVON Radio.

Breakfasts for Alums, Donors

Joining us at one of our 2009 Breakfast with the Girl Scouts events was Illinois Attorney General Lisa Madigan who spoke to guests and girls about her own experiences as a Girl Scout. The fundraising breakfast gave Girl Scout alumna and community supporters a closer look at today's contemporary leadership development program. Breakfasts also were held in Calumet, Indiana; and the Illinois communities of Lombard, Vernon Hills, Tinley Park and Chicago.

in Our Community

Program Innovation Highlights

- More than 21,323 girls attended council-offered workshops that expand girls' thinking and cultivate their leadership skills. Summer camp programs attracted 1,515 girls for resident camp, 482 for family/troop programs and 2,751 girls for staff-led day camps.

- The STEM (science, technology, engineering, and math) Initiative engaged 11,000 girls in innovative hands-on activities encouraging them to pursue STEM interests in school and careers and improve their academic performance. STEM programs received support from the Motorola Foundation, empowering girls to compete in Lego Robotics for example; and from the GEICO DASHboard program to support teaching girls about safe driving.

- More than 20,500 girls are leading healthier lives after building their skills and knowledge relating to fitness, nutrition, self-esteem and interpersonal relationships by participating in our Healthy Living Initiative. Girls involved in our GirlSpace grant-funded, after-school program offered to more than 2,500 girls in 40 Chicago Public Schools achieved, for the second year, significant gains in knowledge about healthy living by participating.

- Through the Financial Literacy Initiative, more than 3,500 girls are implementing financial skills and knowledge to help them set financial goals and gain the confidence necessary to take control of their financial future.

- Girls artistically captured the diversity found right in their own backyards when they engaged in our Community Walls collaboration with Hostelling International – Chicago. Girls worked with adult mentors to graphically represent the people, places and ideas that give life to their communities.

- More than 2,000 girls' reading abilities were strengthened through the Reading Initiative. Curriculum resources that focused on building language arts skills were available in English and Spanish.

- As part of the Girl Scouts Forever Green national environmental community action pilot, girls are taking action to conserve energy, reduce waste, and set the pace for reducing carbon footprints by turning off and unplugging electronic appliances when not in use.

Volunteers

In 2009, the council honored 1,964 adult volunteers who together have invested more than 16,260 years of service to Girl Scouts, including two with more than 60 years of service each, one with 55 years of service and eight with 50 years of service. Nearly 1,000 volunteers and guests attended the four council recognition events held regionally to honor the many women and men who dedicate themselves to impacting the lives of girls. The council honored the six SUVAs (service units/VISTAs/associations) that received the President's Award for their outstanding accomplishments, and those who received the following 2009 GSUSA board-approved awards: four Thanks Badge II recipients (Celeste Adams-Holecek, Cora Lee Blazek, Thelma Francis and Heather Linehan), two Thanks Badge recipients (Gwen Ferguson and Barbara Pennington), four who received Honor Pins, and 29 who received Appreciation Pins.

Our volunteers complete appropriate training that orients them to Girl Scouting and provides basic and grade level assistance for mentoring girls, as well as instruction in First Aid/CPR, outdoor, training specific to their volunteer role/position, and enrichment workshops. During 2008-09, 13,583 people signed up for trainings. New resources were distributed this year, including Volunteer Essentials, Council Essential and Troop Module.

Financial Highlights

Girl Scouting's ability to transform girls' lives extends into communities struggling to address difficult challenges of joblessness, homelessness, poverty and violence.

Thanks to the support of several vital funders, the council has been able to provide life-changing opportunities for girls in the following areas:

- GirlSpace: Supported by a $50,000 gift from Polk Bros. Foundation, a $35,000 grant from the City of Chicago CDBG and a $25,000 gift from Children's Care

- Financial Literacy: Supported by a $35,000 gift from HSBC and a $15,000 gift from Citi Foundation

- Healthy Living: Supported by a gift of $30,000 gift from Westlake Health Foundation and a $25,000 gift from Girl Scouts of the USA/The Dove Self-Esteem Fund

- STEM: Supported by a $10,000 gift from Girl Scouts of the USA/Motorola Foundation
